Friends School 5114 N. Charles Street Baltimore, Maryland

To be trusted is perhaps the greatest compliment that one can ever be paid, and may only come about when one demonstrates not only wisdom in human affairs, but more importantly, unfaltering integrity and concern.

Education is not so much exposure to ideas, as exposure to people, to styles of life. His classes deal not so much with history, as with the larger problem in life — how to be. He shows us through his actions as much as his words the importance of honor and self-respect.

It is with fondness and respect on the occasion of his retirement, that we, the class of 1970, dedicate our yearbook, the QUAKER, to

a diversity

of background

of thought

of belief

of being a world of the competitive of the intellectual of the physical with a struggle for survival a fight for acceptance

a hope for understanding a reach for growth

all merged into one

whether satisfied or not with what is there whether working for right or wrong in one's own mind or that of another's whether hawk or dove or in between or undecided

whether fighting against or living with an established order one thing is learned if none else is that we come in many forms with many ideas using many ways but, have only ourselves to learn to live with.

In Memoriam

Robert C. Richardson

April 14, 1907 - January 19, 1970

In his twenty-eight years of service at Friends School, Robert C. Richardson worked with an untiring devotion to this school and constantly showed an outstanding sense of fairness in dealing with both students and faculty. Let our tribute to this man be not grief, but a sincere endeavor by all to follow his great example.

Faculty

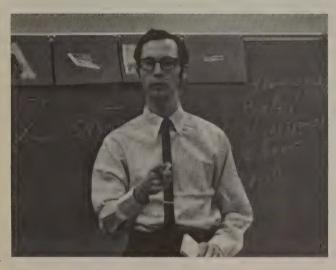

Mr. Frank Shivers, chairman of the English department, coordinates the efforts of the four other members of the department.

Miss Dibert teaches seventh grade grammar and literature with the help of Podunk and "Miss Hinch".

The eighth grade is taught by Mr. Taylor who also directs the Communications course which now replaces Public Speaking.

In the freshman year Mr. Blauvelt astounds students with his two month assignment sheets and his pink elephant. He and Mrs. Cushing also teach the tenth grade English sections.

Mr. Shivers and Mrs. Cushing preside over the junior and senior years of English. The emphasis in junior English is upon British literature and upon American literature in the senior year.

MR. BLAUVELT

MRS. CUSHING

MR. SHIVERS

MISS DIBERT

MR. TAYLOR

MR. ROEMER

MR. IRVINE

Mr. Irvine teaches an urban-oriented eighth grade geography course, World Beyond Europe and Economics with the help of Harry Homeowner and Peter Principle.

The ninth grade history classes are taught by Mrs. Walker with the help of numerous "racy" novels. She is also the Russian teacher and in her courses concentrates on grammar and conversation. With the aid of "The Little House in the Swamp" and fast-talking records, she tries to give students a good conversational base in the four years offered.

Besides acting as chairman of the History department, Mr. Nicolls teaches sophomore history, junior American history and senior English history.

Up until December, Mr. Roemer taught seventh grade American history, junior American history and Contemporary history. In December Mr. Roemer left to accept the executive directorship of the Maryland A.C.L.U. Mrs. Goshen has replaced him in all of his courses and as "Daughter of the Foreign Service" substituted a new course for seniors: American Diplomacy.

MRS. GOSHEN

MRS. WALKER

Seventh and eighth graders start French with Mr. Brumit. Their general cries of "Bonjour" to all they meet indicate some of their enthusiasm.

Ninth graders may then elect French taught by Mrs. Kay. Mrs. Thompson then emphasizes literature and culture in French II and III. French IV classes with Mrs. Cornblath concentrate on literature almost exclusively.

MRS. KAY

MRS. TELLER

MRS. THOMPSON

MISS DIX

MR. BRUMIT

MRS. CORNBLATH

Madame Teller is in charge of the Spanish department, teaching the two levels offered, plus French in Lower School grades.

The Latin Department is managed by Miss Dix, who teaches all four levels. This year she also taught an experimental course in Greek offered to a limited number of students.

MR. FORBUSH

Mr. Forbush serves as chairman of the math and science department. In the math department, Mr. Forbush teaches the more mathematically inclined in Analysis, Math 12 and Math 13.

Mr. Sexton and Mr. Samuel teach the algebra classes – Mr. Sexton with the aid of his Mickey Mouse hat and Mr. Samuel with the aid of "groob" and "phatz."

Mr. Samuel is also responsible for teaching students that geometry is as easy as "pi."

In the seventh grade students begin math with Mr. Bishow, whose enthusiasm mesmerizes the seventh graders, who madly attack word problems and beginning algebra.

MR. SEXTON

MR. SAMUEL

Science in the Upper School begins with the seventh grade where biological science is taught by Mr. Bishow and Mr. Davis.

Mrs. Kearse instructs the eighth grade classes in courses which are oriented towards earth science and the ninth grade class which is a lab-oriented course.

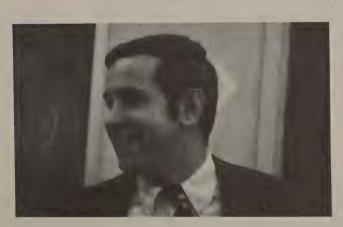

Having completed these general subjects, Mr. Davis sends sophomores microbe hunting in his Biology course.

Juniors and Seniors may then choose-Chemistry taught by Miss Sweeney (she teaches Algebra, too) or Physics taught by Mr. Forbush.

This year a new course has been added to the Science department – Mr. Forbush's "Survey of Science" for those who enjoy "fireside science."

MISS SWEENEY

MR. DAVIS

Mr. Curtis is the head of the Athletic Department. This year he coached football, lacrosse and girls' varsity basketball.

Mrs. Morse, head of Girls Athletics, coached hockey, JV basketball and lacrosse.

Mr. Morse coached varsity soccer, varsity basketball, and lacrosse.

In addition, both of the Morses teach health classes for the seventh and eighth grades. All three members of the Athletic Department have a full schedule of Lower School teaching duties.

MRS. POWELL

Mrs. Richardson is head librarian and this year gained a long needed assistant, Mrs. Marsden. Things have been unusually hectic in the library this year because in addition to the usual heavy load there were plans being worked on for remodeling the library.

MR. AND MRS. MORSE

MR. CURTIS

Mrs. Powell directs all the courses in art and art appreciation that are offered in the Upper School. She is also in charge of the artwork for the dramatic and Mixed Chorus productions.

MRS. MARSDEN

Food For Thought

Under the direction of Mrs. Bonnet, the kitchen staff, has provided us with a refreshing break between classes. Along with our favorites, tuna surprise and brownies, the appearance of cheeseburgers and hot dogs became more frequent along the lunch line. Such innovations as soup and fruit juices helped to bring variety to our trays.

Our many thanks to: Mr. Braxton, Mr. M. Braxton, Mrs. Bouldin, Mrs. Brothers, Mrs. Brason, Mr. Calloway, Mr. Carroll, Mrs. Cornish, Mrs. Dughins, Mrs. Fields, Mrs. Gray, Mr. Henry, Mrs. Hudson, Mr. Kessler, Mrs. Morris, Mrs. Nolley, Mrs. Reed, Mrs. Selby, Mrs. Stewert, Mrs. Wade, Mr. Wade, Mrs. Williams, and Mrs. L. Williams.

MRS. BONNET

MR. GARFIELD HUDSON

The entire school was saddened by the loss of Garfield Hudson, a staff member at Friends School for almost fifty years.

His loyalty towards Friends was unfaltering and he will always be remembered with affection and appreciation by all who knew him.

Office Staff

In the Upper School Office: Mrs. Patterson, Mrs. Boles, and Mrs. Mays.

Mrs. Doughty, secretary to Dr. Forbush.

Mrs. Heiderman operates at the switchboard.

In the Business Office: Mrs. Rock, Mrs. Erbe (alumni secretary), Mrs. Cox, and Mrs. Tyson.

Administration

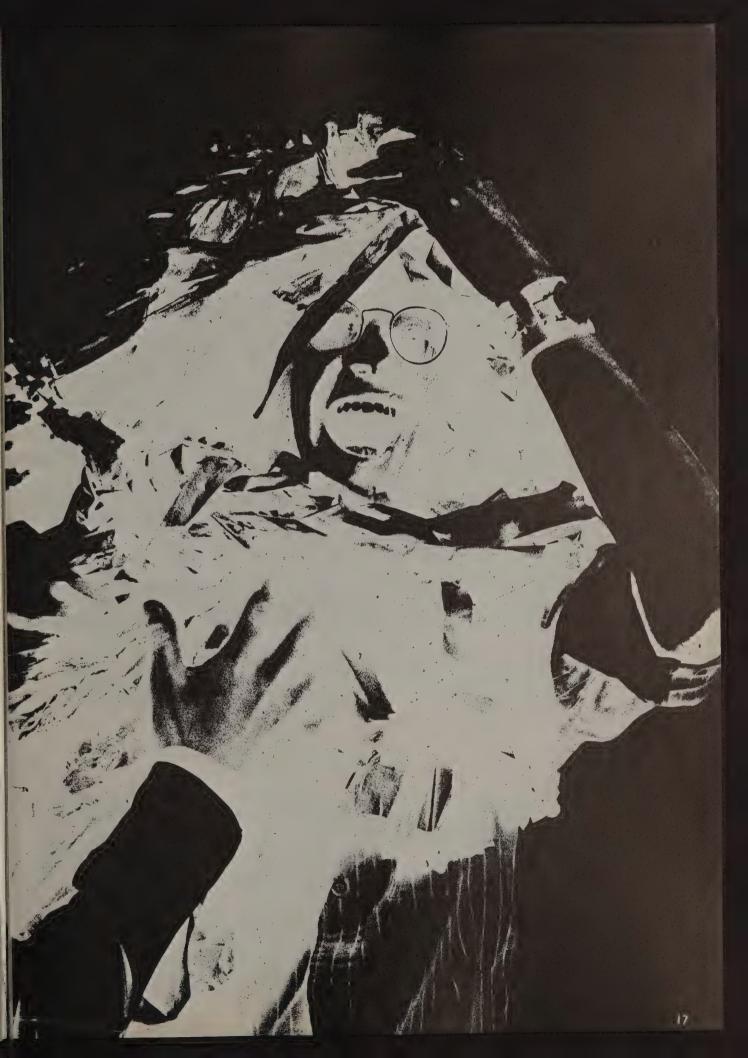

Whether discussing Dress Code with students or Curriculum with the Parents Auxiliary, Dr. Forbush tried to make sense out of the multifarious opinions that one heard voiced. Without sacrificing the diversity which gives Friends its charm or the Quaker principles which give it its direction, he strived to temper all his actions with a sense of unity, concern, and compassion.

In his capacity as Assistant Administrator, Mr. Johnson not only took charge of college guidance for girls, but also taught Religious Ethics and dealt with many of the problems involved in running the school.

His office is often a haven for the disenchanted, disgruntled, or disinherited, but through his disarming smile and cordial manner he generally succeeds in solving the problem.

Seventh Grade

The fearless fifty-eight, the class of '75, shall be known as the class that was ready. After a special crash course in commando tactics given by the guerilla warriors of the eighth grade, the seventh graders came well-prepared to indulge in the rigors of lunch line combat and recess rumbles. Oddly enough, the majority found that they were also able to cope with the academic demands of Miss Dibert, Mr. Bishow, and other members of the enemy camp.

At the end of this year, with Miss Dibert's departure, the seventh grade is losing a view of grammar that has aided all of her students in all their endeavors. We wish her luck and hope we can live up to her fine standards.

Mrs. Kay's marvelous voice leading our even more marvelous voices in French songs . . . Port Welcome Tour in Geography (we didn't have to wear our uniforms) . . . the Drudgery of working on your future curriculum schedule . . . All this adds up to a great year and a note of sympathy to other eighth grade classes, past and future who have to TRY to live up to our example!

Freshman Class

'73 . . . The conservative class gradually liberalizes. Though this year the 73er's greeted their new role with their usual enthusiasm, there were those who said, "it's about time" to the extra opportunities offered to the freshmen. With Wendy Gamble acting as President of the class, Rob Zinkham, Brian Kaesther, Pixie Newman, and Ann Eliasberg were the class' Senate representatives. Audrey to the Turtle mocked. Witching their way into The Crucible were Ricky PERLAMN, Brian Kaestner, Wendy Gamble, Pixie Newman and Jacy Strauss. (Sexton, Samuel, Sweeney) tried to be the solution set of our Algebra problems . . . Napoleon, burning not flammable substances, Rooster and Antonio, hydroelectric power stations mounted up, lucky us . . . Screaming yellow zonkers did magic tricks, Barbara Hutzler, John Grill, John Sieck and Chris and Robin Felder sang songs and danced their way through "South Pacific," and a few rode horseback into the sunset singing "Happy Trails To You."

Sophomore Class

This year's sophomore class spent the year under the fine leadership of president Saundra Bond, our own comedian-secretary, David Chang, and treasurer Marli Knust, well-known for her famous rendition of "Please pay your class dues!" The sophomores participated in a wide variety of extra-curricular activities which included pitching pennies, playing "king of the mob" in the lunch line, nickel basketball, and starving themselves for wrestling weigh-ins. The class tired to keep itself from falling into the dreaded sophomore slump by participating in such fun-filled frolics as struggling to pronounce unfumdisi in English class, complaining to Mr. Davis about the stench of the rat cages, hearing words of wisdom in geometry class: "And I claim that . . .", and expounding "ouh! ouh! ouh!" in French, to keep from being put on the black list or guillotined.

Despite all this activity, the class had time to welcome four new students, Matt Grant (who soon became famous for his performance in a collection kazoo concert), Keith Martin, a good friend of Mr. Davis' gerbils, Mary Carroll, who used to be a student at Friends in the lower school, and Jan Levi, who made famous the statement, "But Mr. Nick, weren't there any good people around?"

Junior Class

Juniors - wow! - to prom or not to prom, that was our question – soul, rock, psych or blues, that was our choice – meanwhile David Patz and Clair Zamoiski were busy Affiliating while Steve Frenkil Serviced the Community with a labor of love - Emily Frank, Jack Lieberman, and Barbara Sieck, our Junior thespians, bewitched drama fans with Miller's The Crucible - Robert Sherbow departed our ranks in search of greener grass - Things (his ankle!) took a nasty turn for B-baller Chuck Hoff as the sight of crutches became a run-of-the-mill affair - Denny Bell and Rudy Redd, front axle of "Mother Truck," rolled on providing comic relief and occasionally, really good music - it was an athletic class too! Kaestner, Preston, Hodges, Mariano, Brown, Price, Buck and a multitude of others swarmed the fields, mats, courts, etc. adding their strength and spirit to the mighty Friends effort as Barbie Ball and Jeremy Strauss faithfully cheer-led them on - John Brody (and a host of others) fell prey to the barber's shears but apparently emerged none-the-worse for their nasty experience – what the class lacked in unity and organization it made up for in its diversity of character and personality - the Junior Class? - well, it was . . . declassified!

Senior Class

With longer hair, more hang-ups per square inch of suffering flesh, more colorful, if not unlawful clothes, and 38% more cavities, the class of 1970 slalomed through nine months of scholastic adventure, emerging rather fatigued, but still quick-witted, enthusiastic, and certifiably insane.

The motto of the class of 1970 might be: "the quality of mercy is not strained" – but it isn't. No one was clever enough to think of any catchy phrase which symbolized our strength, fortitude, and cleanliness, so each student was consequently forced to use personal initiative to define his role in school, society, and the universe.

Though Carl – "I am your president" Robbins tried sincerely to co-ordinate class activities, the class succeeded in avoiding the following of any well-defined route, preferring to re-evaluate all activities in terms of their inherent value rather than follow the dictates of tradition. Indeed this was its charm or its curse, depending on where you were sitting.

"I never fancied broiling fowls; – though once broiled, judiciously buttered, and judgmatically salted and peppered, there is no one who will speak more respectfully, not to say more reverentially, of a broiled fowl than I will."

from Moby Dick Herman Melville

Ah, love, let us be true
To one another for the world, which seems
To lie before us like a land of dreams
So various, so beautiful, so new.

Hath neither joy, nor love, nor light,
Nor certitude, nor peace, nor help for pain;
And we are here as on a darkling plain
Swept with confused alarms of struggle and flight
Where ignorant armies clash by night.
from "Dover Beach"
by Matthew Arnold

Flesh dead in lethal rain, And the vain mind dissolved in hate, Kisses at the dark train, And children born of dead fathers And pressed flowers and blood Stained snapshots – the creative will Stirs the seed from the mud.

And the lost world we hunted, each
In proud flesh or tough mind,
Found, in doubled vision no cost
Of time or death shall blind.

"But she said a great deal more than that"! the White Queen moaned wringing her hands, "Oh, ever so much more than that"!

"So you did, you know," the Red Queen said to Alice. "Always speak the truth - think before you speak and write it down afterwards."

April Rise

If ever I saw blessing in the air
I see it now in this still early day
Where lemon-green the vaporous morning drips
Wet sunlight on the powder of my eye.

Blown bubble-film of blue, the shy wraps round Weeds of warm light whose every root and rod Splutters with soapy green, and all the world Sweats with the bead of summer in its bud.

If ever I heard blessing it is there
Where birds in trees that sholes in shadows are Splash with their hidden wings and drops of sound
Break on my ears their crests of throbbing air.

Pure in the haze the emerald sun dilates,
The lips of sparrows milk with mossy stones
While white as water by the lake a girl
Swims her green hand among the gathered swans.

Now, as the almond burns its smoking wick, Dropping small flames to light the candled grass;

Now, as my low blood scales to second chance, If ever world were blessed, now it is.

You have sung to me in my aloneness, and I of your longings have built a tower in the sky.

But now our sleep has fled and our dream is over, and it is no longer dawn.

The noontide is upon us and our half waking has turned to fuller day, and we must part.

If in the twilight of memory we should meet once more, we shall speak again together and you shall sing to me a deeper song.

And if our hands should meet in another dream we shall build another tower in the sky.

"Tell you the truth, it's even a little better for me if he goes. I mean, he's a middle-aged kid. When I signed with the network he sat up all night figuring out the fringe benefits and pension plan. And he started to make LISTS this year. Lists of everything; subway stops, underwear, what he's gonna do next week. If somebody doesn't watch out he'll start making lists of what he's gonna do next year and the next ten years. Hey, suppose they put him in with a whole family of list makers. I didn't spend six years with him so he should turn into a list maker. He'll learn to know everything before it happens, he'll learn to plan, he'll learn to be one of the nice dead people. I just want him to stay with me till I can besure he won't turn into Norman Nothing."

"A Thousand Clowns" Herb Gardner

You Know what you eat, You do not know what you are. Salvador Dali

John Edward Gardner

And this also, though the word lie heavy upon your hearts:
The murdered is not unaccountable for his own murder,
And the robbed is not blameless in being robbed.
The righteous is not innocent of the deeds of the wicked,
And the white-handed is not clean in the doings of the felon.
Yea, the guilty is often times the victim of the injured,
And still more often the condemned is the burden bearer for the guiltless and the unblamed.

You cannot separate the just from the unjust and the good from the wicked;

For they stand together before the face of the sun even as the black thread and the white are woven together.

And when the black thread breaks, the weaver shall look into the whole cloth, and he shall examine the loom also.

We know the sound of two hands clapping.
But what is the sound of one hand clapping?

Yes, you who must leave everything That you cannot control; It begins with your family, But soon it comes round to your soul.

Well, I've been where you're hanging
I think I can see how you're pinned.

When you're not feeling holy, Your loneliness says that you've sinned.

After fifteen years at Friends School there are things:

I like to remember – Mr. Bush and his "Little brothers," Dannenberg's corned beef sandwiches, "Intimate Stories of British Monarchs" by Mr. Nick, lacrosse with Mr. Peacock, "Contrifugal Force is a Fake" by Mr. Forbush. I can't conceive – Mr. Roemer wearing a Wallace button, Dorst flunking math or Stenger passing it, Mr. Shivers laughing aloud, yours truly winning a varsity letter, Niehans talking or Robinson silent.

I hope to see – Mr. Curtis with a championship football team, Admiral Ham on the bridge of his own ship, all of the class of '70 in college and none in the Army.

If I am not for myself, who will be? Yet if I am for myself only, what am I? If not now, when?

The bird breaks out of its shell – "Who would be born must first destroy a world." Leaving behind the darkness for whatever is beyond, toward light, life – toward the miraculous. How do we make the journey? Why?

I remember confusion, frustration, different paths leading to labyrinths with walled-up exists, retreats, mind-escapes. Look there, behind the words and between the spaces. What is it? Stumbling, embarrassment, hesitation? Bring the night in as a friend.

Yet the other half of the circle spins around, perhaps in an accidental conversation about nothing, when suddenly the other person takes on the complexity and realness one understands about oneself. Becoming friends – jokes, sarcasm, talking, understanding, presents – a birthday cake, a smile. Even old friends become newer at every meeting, even as "Frances Mann walks into the room." There are so many stories to tell

". . . and a time to every purpose under heaven." Shalom.

Things
(Lovers Call Their Own)

Walking down a shady park walk way Girl beside me things are fine And our love will ever glow Doing all that lovers call their own

Nothing is as nice as a spring time day Hands together kissing call you mine Our hearts beat, her lips are red and show All the things that lovers call their own

Rain falls down don't feel it we are gay Running straight for shelter record time Sitting watching green blades grow Having things that lovers call their own

We must depart so ends our happy stay Smiles all around laughing we incline Warm bed wife is busy sew Everything here lovers call their own (June 2, 1969)

Mother in Wartime

As if it were some noble thing,
She spoke of sons at war,
As if freedom's cause
Were pled anew at some heroic bar,
As if the weapons used today
Killed with great élan,
As if technicolor banners flew
To honor modern man —
Believing everything she read
In the daily news,
(No in-between to choose)
She thought that only
One side won,
Not that both
Might lose.

Langston Hughes

If I had wings, no one would ask me should I fly The bird sings, no one asks why I can see in myself wings as I feel them If you see something else, keep your thoughts to yourself

I'll fly free then.

Yesterday's eyes see their colors fading away They see their sun turning to grey You can't share in a dream that you don't believe in

If you say that you see and pretend to be me – You won't be then.

How can you ask if I'm happy going my way? You might as well ask a child at play There's no need to discuss or understand me I won't ask of myself to become something else – I'll just be me.

I wonder how many people in this city live in furnished rooms.

Late at night when I look out at the buildings I swear I see a face in every window looking back at me, and when I turn away
I wonder how many go back to their desks and write this down.

"Now you folks come on and be happy, come on and be happy."

L. B. J. St. Louis, Missouri October 21, 1964

The weed will win in the end, of course. (Time is on our side)

Thine alabaster towns will tumble, thine engines rot into dust.

Man will break his date with the future, No matter how long he wants to play outlaw, no matter how long he wants to gallop through town shooting like a madman and hooting at the laws of nature's god.

It is not they that he has made obsolete, it is himself.

This ending down the road? I'll bring you up,
Though you may not know

Once they spoke, as you may recall, of coming in magic through the garden gate. I feel still at midnight, my lucky stars above my anxious egg. If someone comes for me, I will see the milkman again this dawning (we're just a baby bodkins so we don't know what to say) and sleep sack mermaid cathy, cove of morning (I'll recommend her to the sea) Deeper night: up where the blue milk is spilt do you make out my car go floating, long ways alone, a strange haze fading, then, this shameful graveyard scene — Death! — far too many less pearls than swine. But who are all these fantastic pretensions? steven and robert and john, winkin and blinkin and nod (have you heard him play those shadow echoes on his rudy piano) casting nets. In dreams I assemble model trains in a library with marble floors. And i appear to be essentially oriental. Ah-so! dairy symphonies. I will be an angel very soon. What was thaas? (fall mountains, fall in the sea) Fog was waas?

Then the dark began to go in smooth, bright shapes, like it always does, even when Caddy says that I have been asleep.

How should one American introduce himself to another nowadays? Do you say, "Hi, there! I'm your friendly guilty white oppressor, and I don't want you to feel bad about hating me because I deserve to be hated, and if you only knew how guilty I feel . . ."? Too many of us come on like this. Guilt is the emotional fashion. It's chic, like sideburns and miniskirts, and it's dangerous, and it doesn't get us anywhere, and for all these reasons it's contemptible at this moment of history. But how do you begin if you bog down right at the start quarreling about what words you're supposed to think in? Do you say "Negroes," "Blacks," "Afros"? Should I resent being called white (actually I'm pink in summer and gray in winter)? I know a few people. There are all kinds of people. I'd like to start there.

- quotation taken from Russel Baker

Andreas Zambach

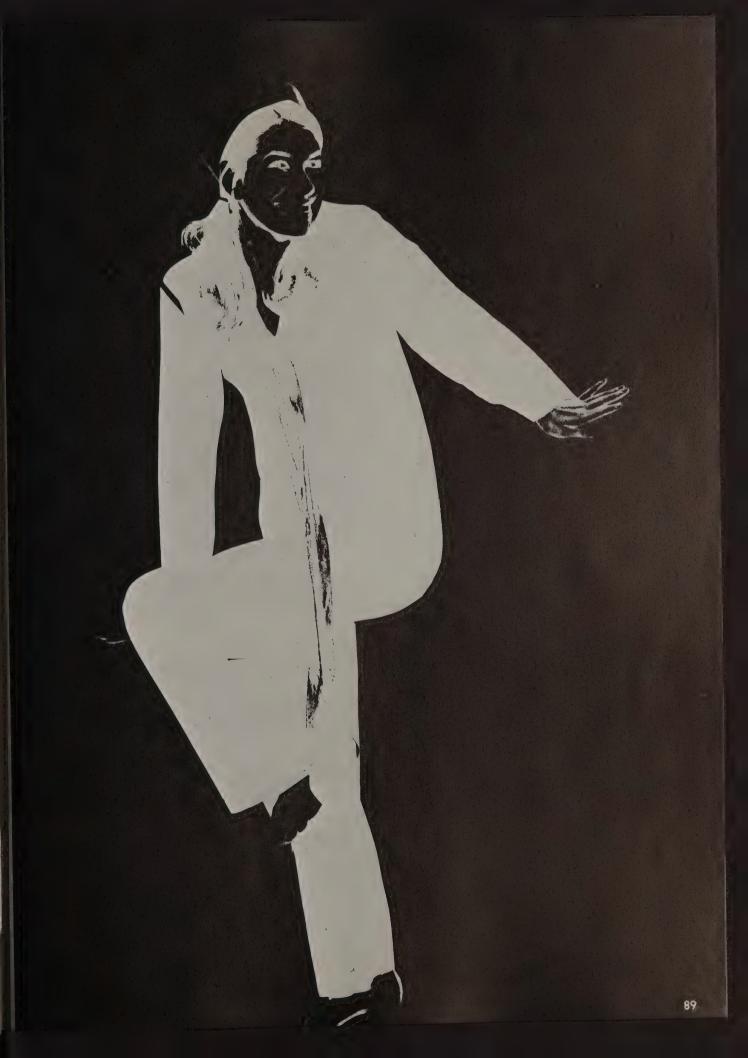

I am being driven forward
Into an unknown land
The pass grows steeper
The air colder and sharper
A wind from my unknown goals
Stirs the strings
Of expectation

Still the question:
Shall I ever get there?
There where life resounds,
A clear pure note
In the silence

Activities

Each Tuesday afternoon, creativity and hard work merge in semi-coordinated student activities. Some students flock over to the Science building to study film techniques under Mr. Blauvelt (not to be taken literally) or to practice their moves — chess moves that is, while others indulge themselves by listening to music or studying (?).

It has been suggested that some of the unsanctioned activities taking place on the campus be organized and clubbed. Could there be next year, a varsity knitting team or a nickel pitching league?

Perhaps the most exciting activity of the year was the Vietnam Moratoriam held in October; it was a demonstration of concern and commitment on the part of the students and set a precedent for further student activities of this sort.

Senate

Although the Senate produced little in the way of stamps licked or schools built in unknown areas of Africa, it was a forum for debate on many current political issues such as the dress code, the curriculum, student rights and the actual value of the Senate itself. The Senate refrained from sponsoring field trips or activities and concentrated on the less practical, more real issues that pervade the contemporary academic community. These, the Senate felt, were more relevant to the learning process.

Under the watchful mind of Bob Robinson, Senate president, the Senate discussed what type of domestic politics (legislation) or international relations (confrontation) the duly elected and authorized representatives of the people should be practicing in the light of present day partisan conflicts within the halls of Friends, alternatives such as the abolition of the organization itself or the "Ad Hocking" of specific issues instead of collectively considering those that were proposed.

This year showed a marked increase in interest in the Senate and interaction between faculty, parents, and students was achieved through a meeting open to all issues.

Students attended meetings and often there was little room left to breathe the bloated rhetoric which emitted from the mouths of proponents of both sides of the issue.

Junior Council

The seventh and eighth grades have their own government, the Junior Council, which makes an effort to bring together the thoughts of the classes and discuss them.

The first official duty of this year's Junior Council was to help orient new students to the seventh and eighth grades.

This year, under the leadership of Jay Sindler and the adviseeship of Mr. Sexton, they sponsored a Junior Council dance, a softball game and a bake sale to raise funds for a picnic for innercity children. Their biggest project, however, was an effort to get the time between classes lengthened because of the great distance many students had to travel between classes.

FIRST ROW: C. Boston, E. Gomprecht, S. Sindler, S. Talalay, C. McKay, D. Willis. SECOND ROW: J. Clapp, E. Shannonhouse, B. Forbush, J. Sindler, H. Goldberg, J. Birge, W. Weaver. ABSENT: J. Camp.

Mixed Chorus

This year the Mixed Chorus presented a modern cantata for its annual Christmas concert. Directed by Mr. Brumit, solos were sung by Denny Bell and Jack Lieberman with a trio arrangement sung by Beth Grill, Roberta Scott and Barbara Sieck with narration by Barbara Entwisle.

After Christmas, the gang returned to begin work on the spring show "South Pacific" (known more intimately as "soused"). Mrs. Fink returned and set boys to "nothing like a daming" and girls a getting a good hair wash. As, per usual, it was "the most spectacular, fantastical, greatest show ever" and with running water yet.

FIRST ROW: S. Koerber, J. Purdum, B. Rowe, S. Patz, K. Lasagna, A. Rowe, E. Frank, R. Scott, G. Pyles, J. Strouse, L. Bing, C. Gomprecht, J. Cox, J. Sherbow, L. Rosen, L. Chiu, D. Karavedas. Dramatics

While Mr. Taylor directed a new approach to Friends School dramatics with improvisational, theater gaming Theater Work-Shop in the gym, in preparation for the climax of this dramatic year, Teddy Neustadt, Jack Leiberman, Brenda Bodian, Barbara Seick, and Teresa Redd, creeped through traumatic psychiatric, social adjustments to crawling regression, racial rift, and atomic fallout drills in Jules Feiffer's Crawling Arnold.

Their enterprising efforts started with an enactment at Baltimore Friends and then drifted in a rented covered wagon to Friends Select in Philadelphia for a warm, receptive, new stage initiation (along with electric carpet shocks). The culmination of Theater Workshop experiences led into the February biproduction of Arthur Miller's The Crucible a timely, screaming bewitching experience which reminded us all of the uncontrollability of accusations and fear in society created by leaning away from the norm. With stage extensions and super-sets, these productions achieved a masterful climax.

FIRST ROW: J. Sherbow, G. Moore, E. Weintraub, J. Strauss, S. Bond, J. Leiberman, B. Parkhurst, B. Sieck, H. Connolly, R. Scott, A. Christ. SECOND ROW: F. Reed, P. Newman, W. Gamble, B. Tucker, J. Stage Crew

The Stage Crew welcomed many new members this year as stage manager Kirk Kolodner and lighting directors, Frances Mann and Chuck Hoff instructed participants in the fine art of incompetence and procrastination, followed by sudden expertise several weeks before a production. Kirk Kolodner led faithful followers in the construction of an extension to the stage. Often as the director called for a halt in a rehearsal, actors onstage could hear the delightful two-part harmony of the lighting directors from the wings -"What's wrong?" and "Yeah!" Meanwhile, Lynn Woodland searched for props to be carried out onstage by her faithful troupe. The members of the crew sometimes passed the time during performances by pushing all the buttons of the side panel of the lightboard, whimsically curious whether or not the intra-auditorium phone system would finally operate. Faculty advisor, Mr. Blauvelt, keeping a wary eye on all the proceedings, is still missing a Gino hamburger and a large coke. HELP!

The Stage Crew looks forward to another year of hard work, near-misses and successful productions.

Assembly Committee

For many years the Assembly Committee has falsely assumed that there could be a culturally and educationally profound experience at F.S. each week. The result has been, with fortunate exceptions, a plethora of musicians, lecturers, and other producers who were either stultifying, too sophisticated for some tastes and student age groups, or not sophisticated enough for others.

While this year's committee has by no means resolved the complex problem of suitable assembly matter, they have simplified the entire situation by initiating a calendar with assemblies on alternating Wednesdays. This curtailed schedule will, hopefully, enhance public relations, ease the budget, improve the committee's process of selection, and, therefore, permit certain outside productions requiring cost and fees.

In addition to the functional or traditional assemblies (such as Senate, Bazaar, Cum Laude, Mixed Chorus) there were plays, movies, speakers, and choirs. The emphasis was placed on drama (particularly student drama) and films — the varied, animated approach of these media seems to merit wider interest in the form and content of the program than other devices for attracting attention.

Community Service Committee

Sitting in Sc. 102, the Community Service Committee plans means of transforming Baltimore city into a working center of community action. Their goal: correcting the problems of the city by involving the student body in beneficial programs, stands before them to be answered. They know the problems and the means of securing their objectives, but reaching the end through the means leaves them in constant discussion and argument.

FIRST ROW: R. Ramirez, J. Houstle, M. Cullen, N. Footner, A. Rowe, B. Parkhurst, J. Christ, M. Strouse, H. Catzen, A. Bernstein, T. Falconer. SECOND ROW: M. Niehans, B. Entwistle, S. Frenkil, L. Chrisman, D. Schulz, T. Humphries, D. Ross, J. Sparks. ABSENT: A. Frenkil, J. Taylor, M. Harris, C. Saxon, J. Strauss, E. Wang.

Although they have their differences, they were able to achieve success in converting their ideas into serviceable activities. Whether singing before the audience of patients at the Pickersgill Nursing Home, playing basketball with a student from #149, wrapping a Christmas present for a Crownsville State Hospital resident, or painting a wastebasket to remind the student body of improving our surroundings, the committee has helped to alleviate some of the community's ills.

Religious Life

The Religious Life Committee encourages greater student participation in Meeting for Worship. This year, under the chairmanship of Frances Mann and the advisorship of Mr. Johnson, the committee has continued to present speakers such as students and out-of-school adults, and films in Thursday morning Collection to stimulate discussion in Meeting.

Sue to lack of Senate funds, the members of the Committee were not able to attend the annual Buck Hill Falls conference, but later in the spring, did make a visit to Friends Central in Philadelphia. There, they were the guests of that school's Religious Committee for two days. The Committee felt that this visit was helpful and hopes to continue this exchange.

Affiliation Committee

Thanks to the brilliant leadership of co-chairmen Clair Zamoiski and David Patz, the sage advice of Miss Dix and Mrs. Thompson, and the tremendous enthusiasm of its members, the Affiliation Committee has regained its importance at Friends School.

Treasurer Kirk Kolodner watched the money box rapidly fill up as Linda Rosen sold food at the varsity games. Other money raising activities were raking leaves, selling baked goods, and promoting a movie. Each meeting, secretary Linda Chiu kept track of the important discussions and arguments - arguments such as whether or not the meeting could adjourn at quarter of three.

This year the Affiliation Committee sponsored Bandy Zambach from Sweden. Bandy has had key positions on the Varsity soccer and tennis teams.

The committee also held an International weekend for the weekend of January 30. Foreign exchange students staying in other Baltimore schools spent the weekend at the homes of Friends School students. The activities of the weekend included visiting Friends School for a day, watching a movie, and attending two parties.

The Affiliation Committee is unknown no longer!

According to the Quill Editors and Quill advisor, Mrs. Cushing, this year's Quaker Quill has been marked by flawless prose, clever photographic gimmickry, enticing headlines, witty cartooning, and perfectly planned pages. Other opinions have been voiced, but since we, the Editors, have been asked to write about the Quill, we feel no compulsion to state any opinions but our own.

Since it is such a chore to fill the yearbook with clever witticisms and provocative photographs, the Editors thought that the Quaker page was the one to skimp on since we stand the chance of offending and humiliating only ourselves and our staff.

We are grateful to all who helped, especially our fearless leader, Miss Cheryl Sweeney, and the entire Farkle family, but we find ourselves incapable of writing another rational word.

Bazaar

The annual Bazaar this year took on a modern theme and situated itself under the signs of the Zodiac. Early in the year co-chairmen Gale Pyles and Irv Wheeler under the direction of Mrs. Richardson, a Bazaar lady of the best kind from way back, set out to make the Bazaar a real exciting place to be. The Upper School Dinner became a Taurusbörg and a raffle was added to help increase the "take." A coffee house which served entertainment with their refreshments was set up in the auditorium with those infamous card tables. The ponies, the orbit art, the octopus, the giant flowers — all the old and new features along with all the old and new faces helped pass a hectic but fun day.

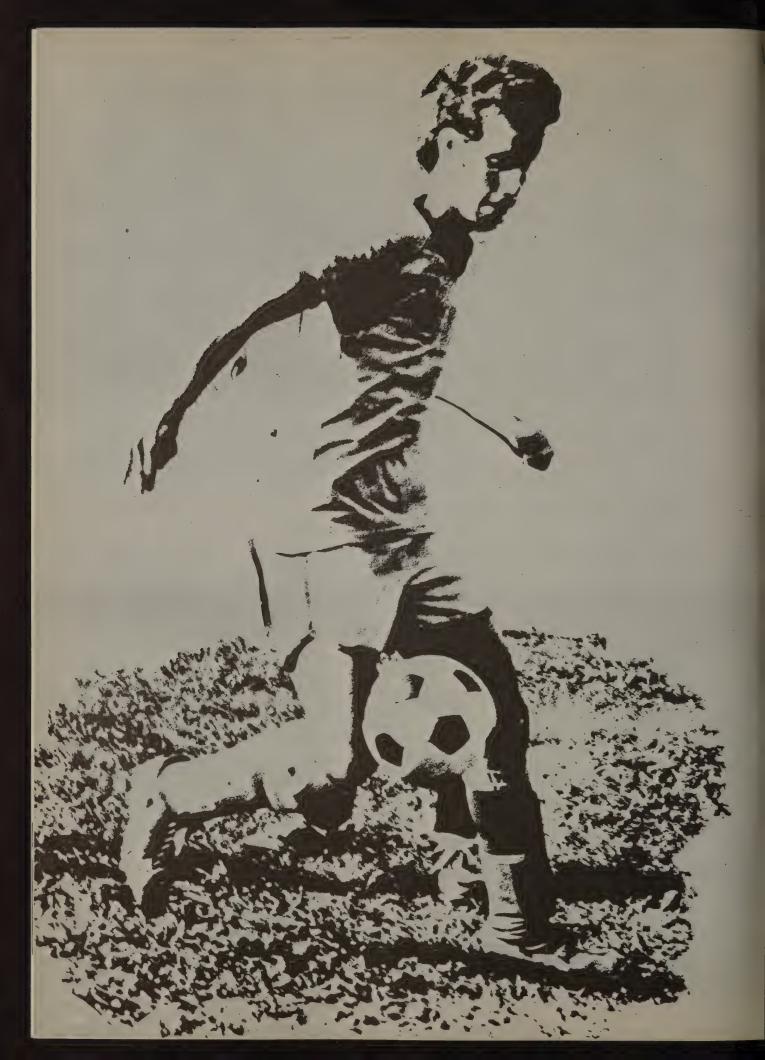

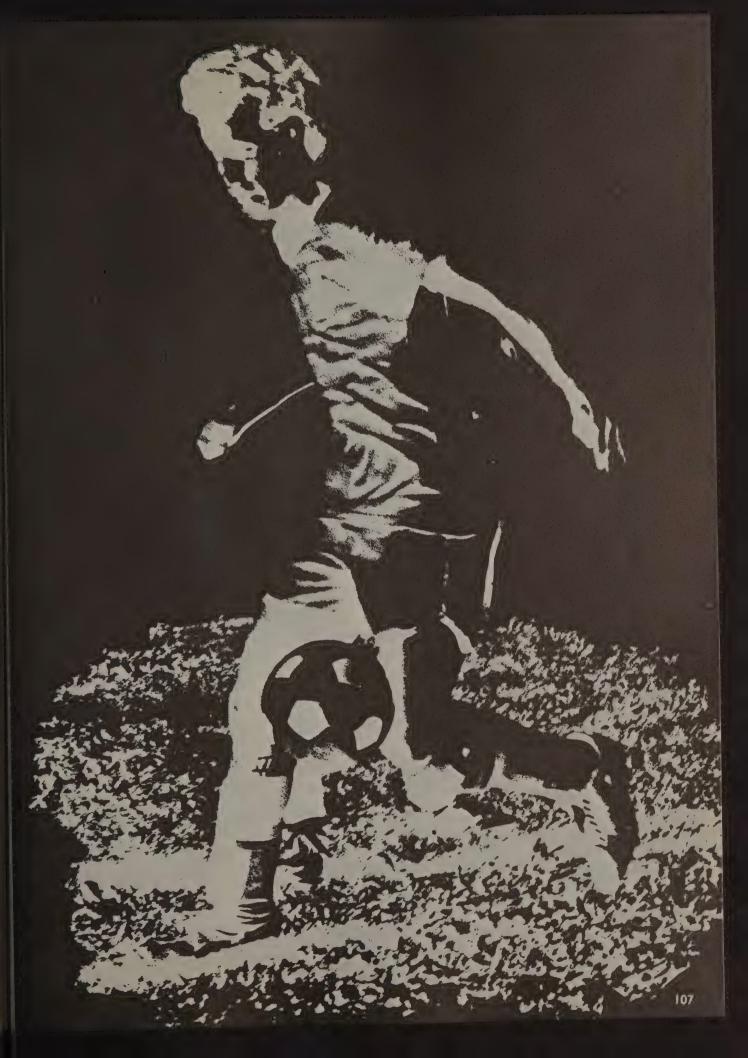

Year Of The Scorpion

Despite bad mittens, the fortitudinous Friends students braved the chilly fall weather to participate in outdoor sports.

Hockey and football showed success and promise as did intramurals. Soccer games were also held but as usual the attendance at all of these games was much less than could have been hoped for.

Varsity Soccer

The Varsity Soccer Team, under the direction of Mr. Morse, finished its season with a winning round. Despite the team captains, Dick Hesky and Carl Robbins, the team was able to score 14 goals while allowing only 6. The high point of the season came in the 5-0 rout of Harrisburg Academy. In this game, the Varsity set a modern-day record for points scored in a single game.

Goalie Clarke Davis continually sparkled in the nets, making many spectacular saves. The fullbacks, Harry Connolly, Bob Kieffer, and Donald Huang were defensive standouts as well as scoring threats. The halfbacks, Neil Ham, Pelham Felder, and Deck Hesky were especially effective in getting the ball up to the forwards. The offensive line consisting of Carls Robbins, Bob Robinson, John Sparks, Bandy Zambach, David Patz, and Doug Balder easily penetrated opposing defenses through deft dribbling and peerless passing.

Varsity Football

The Varsity Football team, coached by Mr. Curtis, compiled a one and three record this year. The lone victory came against Mt. Hebron, whom Friends played for the first time this year. Although their record does not indicate a superior team, the gridders put forth all of their effort in every game. Next year, the team looks forward to an expanded schedule of seven games and hopefully more of a winning season.

Freshman Football

The freshman football team, coached by Mr. Ortman, had a disappointing 0-6-1 season. Although they did not win any games, tough teams from St. Pauls and Boys Latin found that this healthy looking crew was not a "push over." The freshmen look to improve their record next year.

J.V. Soccer

Although only the co-captains, Ken Kolodner and David Chang, returned from last year's starting squad, this year's J.V. version of Friends Soccer brought triumph, victory, joy, and jubilation to Friends. The Jay Vees, who immediately won the hearts of fans, struck fear into the stomachs of the opposition, as they established themselves as a balanced, well-rounded, clean-cut group.

Highlighting their numerable achievements, they carved, for the first time, a winning record into the annals of J.V. Soccer's long history. Under the able guidance of Coach Sexton, the team was never shut out. Led by Ken Kolodner and Tom Mann, the big toes of the offense, the J.V. punched home 13 goals (averaging 2 goals a game), but it was often the defense which collapsed under pressure and allowed a goal. Although as last year, only two Freshmen broke into the starting line up, future teams will be backed by winning momentum.

The J.V. kicked off their season on a torrid pace with a phenomenal undefeated record. Yet, just when it appeared as though they would run off with the championship, they were upset in their second game. This triggered off a string of games which saw a record of four consecutive overtime thrillers, the first three by 2-2 scores in which Friends managed several exciting comebacks.

Everything went on the line as they approached their season finale. The First Annual Awards Presentation heralded this historic showdown, which was appropriately played on Home-coming Day. A record, near-capacity crowd cheered the home team on as they exploded in a merciless 4-0 drubbing of their opponents. This sports classic broke into the headlines as The Sun headlined the 3 words which seem to sum up the season's story: FRIENDS BOOTERS WIN.

At the end of last summer thirteen hockey players went to the pocono Mountains to the Hockey Camp. They began their season early, learning new techniques from European coaches and growing accustomed to playing as a team again.

Back at Friends the season began again with the familiar line, "O.K. ladies line up at the 50." Mrs. Morse coached both the Varsity and Junior Varsity teams this year and made many changes in positions and in players looking for the team that would finally click. Practices were long and hard and as the locker room wall shows, the motto was SCORE. Although some games were let-downs, both teams finished with winning seasons.

Badminton

After losing their first four matches with scores of 2-5, the Varsity Badminton team ended their best season in several years. During practice, the girls' coach, Mrs. Weyers, gave aid to those who needed it. Through the whistling door of the new gym could be heard shouts of "Have you heard the rule about . . .", "I feel like I'm kissing the wall.", or "You balked." The student body did not seem to appreciate the amount of prowess necessary to play badminton. But, all problems were overcome by the team's enthusiasm and amid strains of "Wedding Bell Blues" the team showed that they still knew what victory was.

F.S.A.A.

The 1969-70 year will be remembered as the first year of the merger of the Boys' and Girls' Athletic Associations into the Friends School Athletic Association. Under the guidance of the athletic directors, the F.S.A.A. implemented several changes in the athletic program. The most important of these modifications was the institution of a new point system of awards. Designed to stress participation more than excellence, the new system includes several point "plateaus," which the student can attain throughout his high school career. Certificates, sweaters, and windbreakers have been substituted for the old J.V.-Varsity letters.

In addition, the F.S.A.A. also sponsored the school's first Fall and Spring Homecoming, on November 1st and in early May, respectively.

The most popular winter sport of slush-ball throwing failed again to be incorporated into the winter athletic program, but there is hope that an independent school slush-ball league will be formed next year.

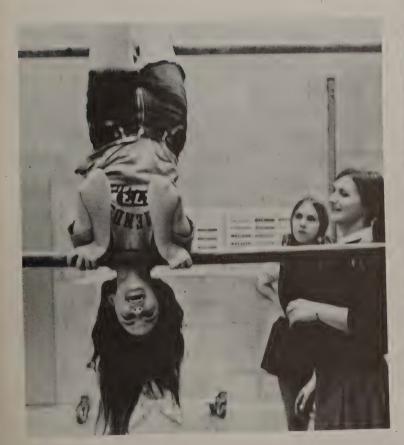

In lieu of slush-balling, students turned to other vocations such as basketball, wrestling or jogging.

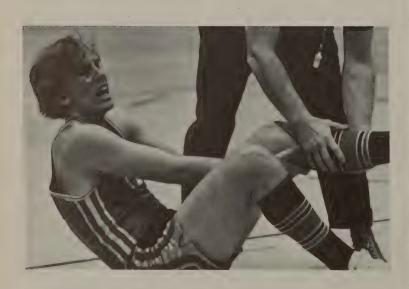

In his first year as Varsity coach, Mr. Morse displayed a great deal of devotion and knowledge, which was evident in the team's winning record (8-6). After the loss of Chuck Hoff with a broken ankle, the team began experimenting with new offenses and defenses. As a result of this failure to find a reliable game plan, the team played a somewhat erratic style of basketball and found it difficult to match the strength and discipline of teams like Boys' Latin and John Carroll. The Varsity was unique, however, in its ability to provide a game with excitement and intensity until the very end. This year's team included starters; Denny Bell, Greg Brown (high scorer), Carl Robbins, Bob Robinson, Rich Slingluff and sixth man, Ramsey Crosby. The bench was outstanding with personalities like Bruce Preston, B. D. Bellamy, Pete Kaestner and "Hot shot" Hodges.

Boys' Varsity Basketball

FIRST ROW: T. Hodges, R. Crosby, B. Preston, P, Kaestner, B. Robinson. SECOND ROW: Mr. Morse, J. Bellamy, D. Bell, R. Slingluff, C. Robbins, G. Brown, C. Hoff.

Wrestling

A deficiency of former Varsity wrestlers presented the team and its new coach, George Cadorette, with a difficult task in facing tough opponents. The grapplers tried to reverse a mid-year exam slump, but some, including the coach, did not show up for practice, and many, again including the coach did not show up for the following match. The team's final record was 1-6 (one team forfeited due to racial disturbance). There were, however, individual Quaker wins: co-captain Bryan Matthews and Tom Price each sported 3-3 records; Tony Mariano earned two decisions; and Rob Preston and Bob Kieffer had one win apiece. Co-captain Irv "the mat" Wheeler was unfortunately out for most of the season with a football injury.

Charles Sherbow, Bob Kieffer, Tom Price, and Irv Wheeler have wrestled their last matches for Friends. In addition to Mark Curtis' 7th and 8th wrestlers who may be stepping into the varsity lineup soon, there remains a nucleus of varsity wrestlers who will return next year to build a new team.

Despite certain problems, those that participated regularly found that wrestling offered the chance to work out with a fine bunch of guys.

Girls' Basketball

The girls Varsity and Junior Varsity basketball teams went partially co-ed this year, with the addition of Mr. Curtis as Varsity coach. The girls finally got to hear some of the stories that the boys had been chuckling at for years after Mr. Curtis vowed that they should be treated as men.

The girls had a little trouble affirming this new-found masculinity, because of a lack of accurate shooting. However, their ball control and ability to pick apart opposing defenses helped to give a positive light to the girls' season.

Mrs. Morse retained some of the feminine characteristics of the sport by coaching the Junior Varsity. The J.V.'s main problem was a void in self-confidence, however as the season progressed, the sloppy lay-ups disappeared and the scores of their games increased.

FIRST ROW: M. Knust, B. Grill, R. Scott, M. Forbush, A. Kaestner, T. Redd, B. Sieck, E. Frank, S. Koerber. SECOND ROW: S. Bond, M. Young, L. Mitchell, L. Buck, L. Price, K. Lasagna. THIRD ROW: J. Boys' JV Basketball

The J.V. Basketball team, under the direction of Mr. Irvine, had a tough job of following last year's championship squad. David Chang, Ronnie James, John Sieck, Biff Cox, and Rob Zinkham faced such powerful opponents as St. Paul's, Boys' Latin, and John Carroll.

7th And 8th Grade Teams

For the first time this year, seventh and eighth graders have had their own wrestling squad and basketball team. Both of these teams practice during physical education periods and the wrestling gang also meets after school. Mark Curtis coached wrestling and basketball was done by Mr. Bishow.

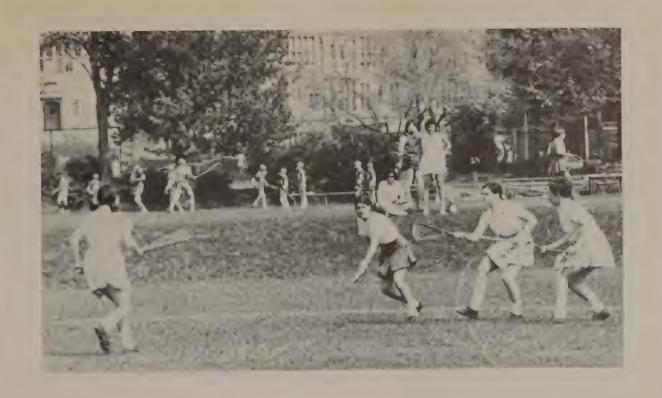

One of the outstanding features of this program was that there were no standings for the teams involved. During the winter season, the teams played other comparable private school teams on Saturdays, but no ranking of the teams occurred. The philosophy behind this was obvious. The boys involved learned the fundamental skills of the game as well as sportsmanship and teamwork. Also the coaches felt free to play every boy in every game because they were not worried about gaining a first or second place rank.

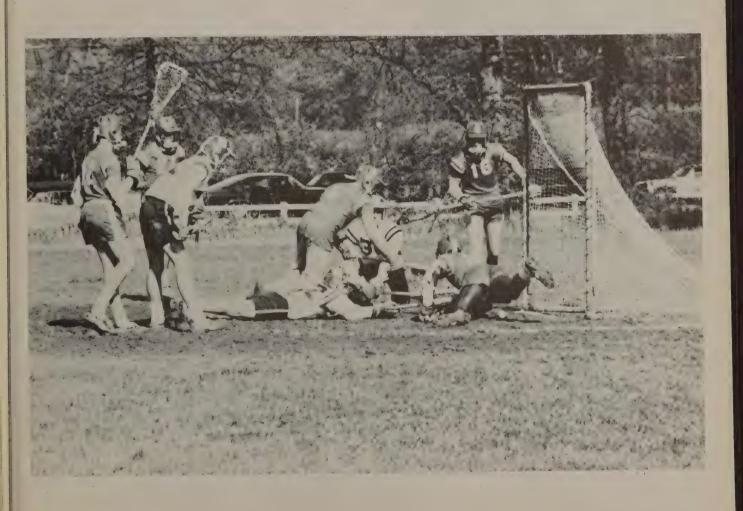

Intramurals were by far the most successful spring sport; the team did not drop a match, a game, a mural, or whatever one drops when one indulges in such sport. Indeed, the team had a perfect record — there were no spring intramurals.

Tennis, lacrosse, and dance did take place. However, none did as well as intramurals, though.

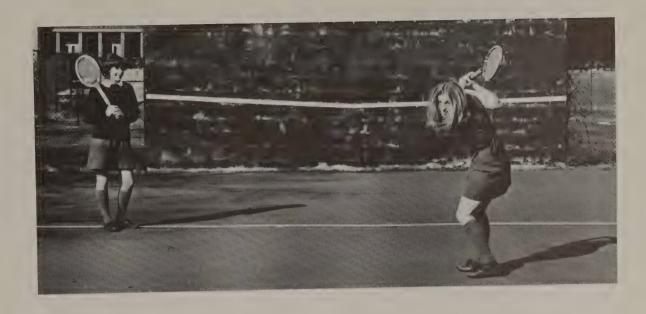

The boys' Varsity tennis team has completed another memorable season. Despite the loss of many of last year's team members, the squad still compiled a respectable record. The team started off in the middle of March when the coaches tried to whip the team into shape. As the season progressed, the boys polished their ability by playing as much as possible in the scheduled time period. Some of the Varsity's favorite pastimes were playing the coaches in doubles and hustling tennis balls from the girls. Although the Varsity will lose some important members, the coaches can look forward to a good team next year.

FIRST ROW: J. Beers, R. Jones, K. Kolodner, R. Ramirez. SECOND ROW: T. Legrand, P. Morse, B. Zambach, R. Benson, D. Huang.

Girls' Tennis

FIRST ROW: L. Mitchell, L. Chiu, L. Crosby. SECOND ROW: B. Sieck, M. Harris, N. Footner, K. Lasagna, M. Adolph, K. Hewitt, C. Koerber, A. Bernstein.

The girls' tennis team survived their rigorous winter training consisting of daily raquet cover removing, can opening and shoe-lacing. Because of the inexperience of the newcomers, the old ball racqueteers taught them the tricks of the game – 30 minute water breaks, slugging a home run into the parking lot, and hustling tennis balls from the boys.

The team retained a majority of its members from last year and with propitious new additions, they played better than ever. Schools such as Roland Park, Bryn Mawr, Notre Dame, and the Park School provided the team with some challenging matches and an overall rewarding season. The members of the team were fairly evenly distributed throughout the ninth through twelfth grades. This wide representation from all grades established a firm foundation from which future teams will benefit.

Boys' Lacrosse

With no winter lacrosse this year, the five returning players and many other hopefuls swarmed to the fields during spring vacation to practice. The games began early and tough competition from such teams as Gilman and St. Paul's made the games tense and exciting ones. They sought to improve last year's 4 and 7 record and Mr. Curtis and Mr. Ortman worked hard with attackmen Bruce Preston and Richard Slingluff; defensemen Denny Bell and Pete Kaestner; goalie Rudy Redd; and midfielders, John Brody (high scorer), Chuck Hoff, Tom Price, and Carl Robbins.

FIRST ROW: B. Matthews, R. Crosby, T. Price, T. Mariano. SECOND ROW: P. Kaestner, M. Westervelt, The Phantom, D. Franz, K. Kolodner, C. Robbins. THIRD ROW: G. Brown, R. Redd, C. Hoff, D. Pfeiffer, R. Slingluff, D. Bell, A. Capute, J. Brody.

Girls'

Lacrosse

After an undefeated record for the past two years, this year's lacrosse team was under great pressure to come out on top again. Many of the girls began to practice as soon as the weather became warmer and were better prepared for the grueling practices. Endurance was built up by Mrs. Morse's familiar windsprints although they were often accompanied by groans.

Only two players from last year were lost. Leigh Buck and Beth Grill were most often found scoring while Barbara Entwistle and her defense held down the opposing scores. With Mrs. Morse's expert coaching, the girls sprinted through another very successful season.
